Vehicle Offer: UAZ 2206 Bajkal SA

Basic Technical Description

The UAZ 2206 Bajkal AMC is built on the legendary "Bukhanka" 2206 chassis, which can be upgraded with a raised roof (movable or fixed) and get more space for camping and sleeping. The off-road performance is great in rough terrain. Thanks to the extendable roof, the UAZ 2206 Bajkal AMC isn't higher than an ordinary van. It handles easily thanks to its compact size, and a minimal use of eletronics ensures durability and a long lifespan.

This modern spark-ignition 16V engine is equipped with BOSCH fuel injection. It provides maximal output and torque in low revs, which implies its fundamental advantage in harsh off-road operation. During the on-road operation it offers swift moving offs and cultivated running. Its sufficient output and gear ratios enable problem-free motorway operation. This engine type is suitable for a modification to LPG fuel and can be diagnosed via OBD connector.

Because the UAZ 2206 Bajkal AMC is based on the UAZ 2206, the engine of choice is the traditional four-cylinder 2693 ccm (82,5 KW) with a 5-speed manual transmission.

The rear axle is used normally but a 4x4 drive can be connected from the driver's seat. All of these vehicles are equipped with a redesigned system of shifting 2H, 4H and 4L, which ensures maximal durability and reliability in rough terrain, in which the two solid Spicer axles come in handy.

In the standard trim, the UAZ 2206 Bajkal AMC features lots of accesories, like an electric rear differencial lock, specific improvements of the main transmission and other minor improvements developed by the AMC company
